

Limestone Showed Me

That the ground is not the furthest you can fall; that rock is weaker than water; that beneath the floor is another floor; that as above is not always so below; that the lines life carves on our faces, it engraves on the landscape; that mineral lives and breathes; that pavement doesn't have to run beside a road; and that everything fractures into fissures in the end.